Iranians celebrate 43rd anniversary of Islamic revolution

Tehran, Feb 11 /--/ Thousands of cars and motorbikes paraded in celebration of the 43rd anniversary of Iran's 1979 Islamic Revolution on Friday, although fewer pedestrians were out for a second straight year due to concerns over the coronavirus pandemic.

In the capital Tehran, processions started out from several points, converging on the usual meet-up point at Azadi Square. Later in the day, President Ebrahim Raisi will give a speech during Friday prayers at a mosque.

The anniversary comes as negotiations to revive Tehran's tattered nuclear deal with world powers continue in Vienna. Former President Donald Trump withdrew the U.S. from the deal in 2018 and re-imposed sanctions, and in response Iran gradually reneged on its commitments.

White House press secretary Jen Psaki said on Wednesday that a deal is in sight, but warned that if it's not reached in the coming weeks Iran's nuclear advances will make it impossible for the U.S. to return to the deal. Crowds waved Iranian flags, chanting slogans and carrying placards that read Death to America and Death to Israel in celebration on Friday, a commemoration for the uprising that ousted a Western-backed monarchy and brought the Islamists to power. It was the second year where celebrations were largely limited to vehicles due to the pandemic. Authorities say the aggressive omicron variant is now dominant in the country, and hospitals have been urged to prepare for a new wave of infections. With more than 130,000 total deaths according to official numbers, Iran has the highest national death toll in the Middle East. It says it has vaccinated some 80 per cent of its population above age 18 with two shots, although only 27 per cent of that group has had a third shot. (AP)

UK lifts all testing requirements for vaccinated travellers

LONDON, FEB 11 /--/ Vaccinated travellers can enter Britain without taking any coronavirus tests starting Friday, after the government scrapped one of the final restrictions imposed over the past two years in response to Covid-19.

British residents and visitors who have had at least two doses of an approved coronavirus vaccine now only need to fill out a passenger locator form before travelling to the UK. Unvaccinated people still have to take tests both before and after arriving but no longer need to self-isolate until they get a negative result.

Transport secretary Grant Shapps said the UK now has one of the most free-flowing borders in the world sending a clear message that we are open for business. Airlines and other travel firms hailed the change as a lifeline after two years of severely constricted travel. Andrew Flintham, managing director of travel group Tui

UK, said there was a huge pent-up demand for international travel, and people were rushing to book getaways for the February school break and April's Easter holiday. Gatwick, London's second-busiest airport, said that it plans next month to reopen the second of its two terminals, shuttered since June 2020. British Airways chief executive Sean Doyle urged other countries to follow Britain's pragmatic approach. But some scientists worry the government is moving too fast.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson's conservative government lifted most domestic rules last month. Face masks are no longer mandatory in most indoor spaces in England, vaccine passports for gaining entry to nightclubs and large-scale events were scrapped, as was the official advice to work from home. Other parts of the UK Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland have also lifted most restrictions. (AP)
